EX-CONGRESSMAN PAYNE, of Cleveland Ohio, who is a banker, by the way, thinks that the financial question should be left to the ablest men in the nation, since the problem is one that requires such profound study. As Mr. PAYNE scouts the idea that the mass of the people are entitled to take part in this consideration, it is not unreasonble to presume that Mr. PAYNE's measur of ability is confined to the size of the balance in a man's bank account.

OUR attention has been called to a paragraph which by some oversight was per-mitted to appear in these columns several the tenor of which was to introduce an unfavorable comparison between the present and former Representatives in Congress from the State of Connecticut. The article did not originate in this office, nor would it have appeared if our attention had been directed to it at the time. Our appreciation of the abilities and services of Hon. JOHN T. WAIT would alone have caused the exclusion of the article from these columns, for no State has a more de voted, faithful, intelligent, and pains-taking to be since he took his seat in the Forty-

An effort will also be made to have Senator Camenon, of Wisconsin, report the re

It is foreshadowed that this report is based upon proofs that are very damaging to the character of BUTLER, who is now waiting admassion to a cent in the Senate. The facts gathered by this committee are such that when known to the country they would show the seating of BUTLER to be an outrage that cannot be defended. The battle must be fought on the ground selected by the enemy, but it must be contested with the valor of 1861 and 1865, without shrinking from the perils or the consequences involved.
If it shall turn out that a Republican majority in the Senate has been betrayed and given away, then let the responsibility of such a calamity fall upon the devoted heads of those who stand as the architects of the ruin that has been accomplished.

Bull-dozing the President.

The organs of the "money centres" and speculators are now engaged in the high purpose of bull-dozing President HAYES into an attitude of hostility to public sentiment on the silver-money question. They began by declaring to the country that the President had indicated a purpose to veto the silver bill if it should pass both Houses of Congress. When this unwarrantable liberty with his views and determinations had been taken and was brought to his attention, he promptly disclaimed having It appears that we are to have the ex-treme felicity of returning to the subjects of rumor affoat have since been eating humble.
